

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Forty-Third National Convention

Municipal Auditorium

October 14-16, 1970

Kansas City, Missouri

Involved In America's Future

The National FFA Officers take pride in welcoming members, advisors and guests to the 43rd National FFA Convention. It is our hope that you will find the convention interesting, stimulating and inspiring.

As we six have traveled across the face of America, and one of us around the globe, these past 12 months, we have grown to better understand this Nation's strength and weaknesses. It is our firm conviction that Vocational Agriculture and the FFA can and should play an ever growing role in America's future. Because FFA members across this Nation share our faith in America, the 1971 National FFA theme is "INVOLVED IN AMERICA'S FUTURE." America's future is dependent upon the constructive involvement of her people. The time to build for your future and America's is now! We have geared every session of this convention to the efforts all FFA members are making toward building this country. Therefore, beginning with this Convention, we challenge all FFA members to redouble their efforts toward insuring a brighter and more bountiful future for these United States. Fellow FFA'ers, let every one of us become involved in America's future.

Yours for a Better America,

The 1969-70 National Officers

The National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed this program on the Advisory List of National Contests and Activities for 1970-71

INTRODUCTION

The Future Farmers of America (FFA) is the national organization of students studying vocational agriculture in public secondary schools, under the provisions of the National Vocational Education Acts. Launched at Kansas City in November 1928, the organization has continued to develop rapidly. The active membership is 430,004 in 8,176 chapters.

The primary aim of the FFA organization is the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation, citizenship and patriotism. Other purposes include: strengthening the confidence of youth in themselves and their work; more intelligent choice of agricultural occupations; improving the rural home and its surroundings; encouraging cooperative effort; encouraging thrift; improving scholarship; providing organized recreational activities and supplementing, by means of student-initiated and student-directed activities, the systematic instruction offered to students regularly enrolled in vocational agriculture courses.

The FFA has taken its place with other agencies interested in the upbuilding of agriculture and the improvement of country life. National headquarters of the FFA is located in the National FFA Center at Alexandria, Virginia.

The 43rd National Convention of the Future Farmers of America was held in the Municipal Auditorium, Kansas City, Missouri, October 14-16, 1970. The 14,330 who registered from fifty chartered associations for that youthful exposition of progressive leadership development, together with many representatives from foreign countries, must surely have returned home with a stronger belief in the future of agriculture.

The minutes of the convention sessions are included, along with certain other important material which is supplementary to or explanatory of the convention activities. Thanks are due many persons whose leadership and dedicated efforts made possible one of the most successful conventions in the history of the FFA.

WM. PAUL GRAY

Call For National Convention

(Issued July 20, 1970)

FELLOW FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA:

In keeping with the Constitutional responsibilities of this office, it is my privilege to issue the Call for the 43rd National FFA Convention. I am pleased to inform you that the 43rd Annual National FFA Convention will be held October 13-16, at the Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City, Missouri. The Tuesday evening, October 13, Vespers Service will mark the beginning of the 1970 classic, and the "Firestone Show" on Friday evening, October 16, will conclude the 43rd convention.

Several changes in the program should make this year's convention even more exciting. Never has there been a more outstanding slate of speakers featured at a National FFA Convention. In addition, the efforts and achievements of Future Farmers from every sector of our Nation will be recognized and rewarded in new and dynamic ways.

Friends and supporters of the FFA will be more impressively honored; and time consuming convention ceremonies and formalities will be speeded so as to provide greater inspiration to both the participants and audience.

In transacting the business of the FFA for the coming year, all State Associations in good standing shall be represented at the convention by two official delegates, plus one additional delegate for each 10,000 members or major fraction thereof above the first 10,000, and two alternate delegates. Official delegates and National Officer candidates should be prepared to attend the delegate orientation at 9:00 a.m. on October 13. All American Farmer Degree candidates, award winners, National Officer candidates and chapter representatives need be present at the first session Wednesday morning.

As National President of FFA, I extend an invitation to every FFA chapter to be represented by six Future Farmers or 10% of its membership, whichever number is greater. This figure does not include award winners or program participants.

While preparing for your visit to Kansas City, kindly familiarize yourself with "You and Your National Convention." May I remind you that Kansas City is a tremendous host for our convention activities. Let us continue to merit their faith in and enthusiasm for our organization.

As the 1969-70 National FFA Officers look forward to seeing you in Kansas City, we anticipate a most successful and monumental convention.

Yours for FFA,

HARRY BIRDWELL
National FFA President

VESPERS SERVICE

Tuesday Evening, October 13, 1970

The Vespers Service at the convention honored the late W. A. "Art" Ross, the first National FFA Executive Secretary. This great American, farmer, rancher, teacher, school administrator and renown vocational youth specialist, devoted most of his life toward worthy achievement for the betterment of youth, especially the FFA.

His every act revealed superb vision, a driving undaunted energy and a ream of wisdom, which together was continually molding and moving the FFA toward higher and more worthy goals. His vision and efforts guided the FFA from infancy to sturdy adulthood as a great organization designed to contribute to fulfill "What the World Needs Now," which was the theme of the Vespers Service.

The National FFA Officers, National FFA Chorus and Len Dawson, Quarterback for the Kansas City Chiefs, the World Champion Football Team, presented an inspirational program centered around "The Beatitudes." Special emphasis was placed on how FFA members can become worthy contributors to society, and fulfill the challenges placed by our departed leader, Mr. Ross.

Minutes of the Convention

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1970

Morning Session

The Forty-Third National Convention of the Future Farmers of America convened in the Municipal Auditorium, Kansas City, Missouri at nine o'clock. National President Harry Birdwell, of Fletcher, Oklahoma, presiding.

Following music by the National FFA Band, under the direction of Roger Heath, of Lafayette, Indiana, the Posting of the Colors was presented by the U. S. Air Force Color Guard of the Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base. The National Anthem was played by the National Band and sung by Fred McClure, of the Texas Association.

The invocation was presented by Jeff Hanlon, National FFA President, 1969-70, after which he was presented with a trophy in appreciation of his untiring efforts on behalf of vocational agriculture and the FFA.

Mrs. W. A. Ross was introduced and presented a plaque in memory of her husband who served the organization as first National FFA Executive Secretary.

The report of delegate credentials was called for and Secretary Pharris reported 113 delegates present from fifty chartered associations. The seating of delegates followed.

It was moved by Foulks, of Indiana, seconded by Behrenwald, of Michigan and carried that the Minutes of the 42nd National Convention be approved as they appear in the 1969 Convention Proceedings.

President Birdwell announced the appointment of the Nominating, Auditing and Program of Activities Committees. Candidates for National FFA Office were then introduced.

Following a brief welcome by President Birdwell, a special program was held on "Building Our American Communities." Brief remarks were then made by James V. Smith, Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, after which he was presented the Honorary American Farmer Degree.

Vice President Dietz assumed the chair.

The Address of Welcome was given by the Honorable Illus W. Davis, Mayor of Kansas City, Missouri.

Smith, of Minnesota, presented the report of the Auditing Committee. Deets, of Kansas, moved the acceptance of this report; motion seconded by Horsey, of Delaware, and carried.

J. M. Campbell, National FFA Treasurer, presented his report. Munson, of Connecticut, moved its acceptance; motion seconded by Dahl, of Nevada, and carried.

The National FFA Chorus, under the direction of Marvin D. Myers, of West Lafayette, Indiana, presented several numbers.

President Birdwell presented a report on The State of the FFA Organization. Secretary Pharris then gave the National FFA Officers' Yearly Report. Thonney, of Washington, moved the acceptance of Secretary Pharris' report, and that the national officers be commended for a job well done; motion seconded by Cox, of Oklahoma, and carried.

President Birdwell resumed the chair.

Following music by the National Band, an address was given by Louis Strong, President of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, after which he was presented a trophy in appreciation of his participation in the convention. Shelton, of Oklahoma, moved to commend Mr. Strong for his excellent words and inspiring message; motion seconded by Purcell, of New Mexico, and carried.

The meeting adjourned with the closing ceremony at eleven-fifty o'clock.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1970

Afternoon Session

The Second Session of the convention was called to order with the opening ceremony at two o'clock by President Birdwell.

Vice President Zumbach assumed the chair.

Vice President Dietz presented an address entitled "How."

Frace, of New Jersey, moved to accept Vice President Dietz's speech and thanked him on behalf of the delegates for the fine work he has done this past year, both at home and abroad, because he has found his way into the hearts of many FFA'ers, not only in America, but in other countries as well; motion seconded by Murphy, of Oklahoma, and carried.

Following music by the National Chorus, National Advisor H. N. Hunsicker, presented the names of the following individuals who were considered and recommended by the Boards of National Officers and Directors to receive the Honorary American Degree and Distinguished Service Award.

President Birdwell resumed the chair.

The following amendments to the National FFA Constitution were approved by the delegate body.

ARTICLE II, Section A

Amend, by adding the following sentence at the end of the paragraph: "More than one chapter may be chartered in a school when deemed appropriate by the State Executive Committee."

ARTICLE II, Section C

Amend, by deleting the present Section C and inserting the following new Section C.

(New) Section C—Collegiate

"Collegiate chapters may be established in two or four year institutions where agriculture courses are taught. Membership shall be opened to students enrolled in agricultural courses, or who are pursuing career objectives in the industry of agriculture.

"Each collegiate chapter shall be chartered by and maintained under the authority of the respective State Association.

"All activities of the collegiate chapter of FFA shall be in harmony with the purposes, principles and ideals of the FFA organization.

"Activities for FFA collegiate chapter members shall be based upon the needs and interests of its members.

"Collegiate chapter members shall pay State and National FFA dues."

ARTICLE III, Section A, Paragraph 1

Amend, by striking out June 15 and inserting May 1, and by striking out June 1 and inserting April 15.

ARTICLE IV, Section B, Paragraph 2

Authorize the editing of this paragraph and all paragraphs in the Constitution and Bylaws by deleting the word "his" and rewording to appropriately refer to "members." For example: "Members may retain their active membership continuously throughout their entire high school career . . ."

ARTICLE IV, Section B, Paragraph 3, Line 27

Amend, by striking out 25th and inserting 23rd.

ARTICLE IV, Section D—"Collegiate Membership"

Amend by deleting present Section D and substituting the following:

Section D

"Collegiate membership may include students enrolled in agricultural courses and former active members of chartered local chapters who are enrolled in a two or four year institution having a collegiate chapter."

ARTICLE V, Section C, Paragraph 7

Amend by striking out "$50.00" and inserting "$100.00."

ARTICLE VI, Section A

Amend by striking out June 15 and inserting May 1 and by striking out June 1 and inserting April 15. This paragraph to read:

"... computed on the basis of National dues received in the office of the National FFA Treasurer by midnight of May 1 or shown by postmark or other reliable evidence to have been mailed to the National FFA Treasurer on or before April 15."

The meeting adjourned with the closing ceremony at five-ten o'clock.

Vice President Postles assumed the chair.

Pitts, of California, presented the report of the Committee on the International Program of Activities and moved its acceptance; motion seconded by Foulks, of Indiana, and carried.

Secretary Pharris announced that the convention registration that morning had reached an all-time record of 14,556.

President Birdwell resumed the chair.

Marlow, of Wyoming, presented the report of the Nominating Committee, which was approved by the delegate body. Tenhouse, of Illinois, moved that the slate of candidates submitted by the Committee be elected by acclamation of the delegate body; motion seconded by Passy, of Idaho, and carried.

Candidates for the American Royal Queen were introduced and each given an opportunity to make brief remarks. Miss Karen Kemp, of Maryland, was chosen Queen of the American Royal, and an impressive coronation ceremony followed, in which State Presidents participated.

Tapalman, of Ohio, moved that the delegate body resolve that it be permissible for States and chapters to have the prerogative to use "Farmer" or "FFA" for chapter, State, and honorary degrees; for example, this would enable a State to confer a State Farmer Degree or State FFA Degree; motion seconded by Smith, of Michigan. Motion failed.

Purcell, of New Mexico, moved to rescind the amendment of Article V, Section C, paragraph 7, which strikes out "$50.00" and inserts "$100.00"; motion seconded by Ingstad of North Dakota. Motion failed.

Daugherty, of Missouri, moved that the delegate body go on record as favoring the correct use of the Future Farmer jacket and encourage all FFA members to adhere to that code of use; motion seconded by Brown, of Alabama, and carried.

Roller, of Virginia, moved to refer to the Board of Directors for possible further action at the 1971 convention, that Article III, Section B, of the Bylaws to the National Constitution be changed by deleting the present Section B and inserting the following new Section B: "That the National Board of Directors be instructed to redistrict the states in order to obtain more equal distribution of members among the four regions, and that this report be given at the 1971 national convention." The motion was seconded by Nelson, of Colorado, and carried.

Burt, of North Carolina, moved that the meeting be adjourned; motion seconded by Cox, of Oklahoma, and carried.

The meeting adjourned with the closing ceremony at twelve noon.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1970

Evening Session

The final session of the convention was called to order with the opening ceremony at seven-fifteen o'clock by President Birdwell.

Mr. Don Erickson, State Supervisor of Agricultural Education in North Dakota, and Director of the FFA Talent for the convention was introduced. Gold, Silver and Bronze emblem awards were presented to talent that participated in the national convention.

Hubler, of Maryland, presented the report of the Convention Program Committee and moved its acceptance; motion seconded by Burt, of North Carolina, and carried.

Shaw, of Oklahoma, presented the report of the Convention Resolutions Committee and moved its acceptance; motion seconded by Cartwright, of Mississippi, and carried.

Burke, of Iowa, presented the report of the Convention Proceedings Committee and moved its acceptance; motion seconded by Shaw, of Kansas, and carried.

Vice President Postles assumed the chair.

President Birdwell presented his retiring address "Signs of the Times." Foulks, of Indiana, moved to accept President Birdwell's address and that he be commended for a job well done; motion seconded by Cox, of Oklahoma, and carried.

President Birdwell resumed the chair.

The Honorary American Farmer Degree was conferred upon the fathers of the national officers and special certificates presented to their mothers. Special plaques were presented to the officers' local advisors.

The newly elected officers were installed in a very impressive and colorful ceremony. National officer pins and leadership plaques were presented to each of the past officers. Dan Lehmann, newly elected president, presented Harry Birdwell with the gavel he used to open the convention. The new president extended greetings.

The final session of the convention adjourned sine die at nine-ten o'clock with the closing ceremony by the new officers.

Following the closing ceremony, special entertainment was furnished by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

National Officer Addresses

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

HARRY BIRDWELL, National FFA President

Before each session of this National FFA Convention, the National Officers have met in a quiet little room immediately behind this stage for a few moments of final preparation and meditation. As part of each pre-session meeting we have all joined in a circle and asked God to guide us in the approaching session of the convention. Throughout our year as National Officers, God has been with us; on jetliners as we have traveled throughout America and one of us around the world, behind microphones, and as we have worked with thousands of FFA members and friends of FFA. It is fitting then that I should use a Biblical passage as the basis of my final address as an active FFA member.

In the 16th chapter of Matthew a group of Jewish men asked Jesus to teach them about the times in which they lived. He answered, "Can you not understand the signs of the times?" In other words, "Don't you understand what today is all about?" Maybe we should ask ourselves that same question: How well do we understand the signs of our times?

The Best of Times: The Worst of Times

Where are we going as a nation? Recently I found an excellent description of 20th century America while leafing through Charles Dickens' great novel A Tale of Two Cities. Its opening paragraph, though intended as a description of nineteenth century England, precisely describes America in 1970:

"It was the best of times; it was the worst of times. It was the epoch of belief; it was the epoch of incredulity. It was the season of light; it was the season of darkness. It was the spring of hope; it was the winter of despair. We had everything before us; we had nothing before us."

On the one hand our knowledge and technological achievements seem to say that these are the best of times. On the other hand our problems say that the world has never been in a sorrier state of affairs.

Yes, there are many things around us which indicate that these are the best of times. I stood in awe and watched Apollo 13 lift off from Cape Kennedy. In a few days that same spacecraft developed serious problems 200,000 miles in space. Fortunately the crew, because of superb training and technical knowledge, safely recovered that crippled craft . . . The National FFA Officers have flown on jet planes all year long to fly across the face of America at 600 miles per hour . . . Dennis and I appeared on the NBC Today show in New York, and were seen simultaneously all over America by 27 million people . . . Think about those new shining "wheels" in your driveway that can cruise at 70 miles per hour; many of you recall the time when you gulped down a medically treated sugar cube that caused your body to build an immunity to a once dreaded disease. Our brilliance as a nation and as a people seemingly tell us that these are the best times in history.

Despite our progress, we are not freed from the human problems that are as old as man's existence. Though we have learned to control so much knowledge and uncover so many mysteries, we have not learned to control ourselves. America is plagued by greed, immorality, racial disorder, war and discontent—the same problems that have destroyed great nations throughout history.

In several large cities the National Officers saw many people who have ruined their lives with drugs—who wandered aimlessly about with nowhere to go and nothing to do . . . In fact we were in New York last February when a 12 year old boy testified that he had been using dope for three years, and was selling drugs in grade schools for over $500 a week. I watched the remains of the Bank of America in Santa Barbara, California smolder after students had burned it . . . The National Officers, out of our own curiosity, walked in the midst of a demonstration at the trial of the Chicago 7. Lots of those protestors had completely given up on the American way of life . . . Steve and I attended a reception for a United States Senator in Washington where one of the guests was shot by a half crazed maniac who happened along . . . C.W. and I watched 1,000 young people pelt police with rocks and bottles at the Honor America Day on July 4th in Washington.

In addition to the aforementioned situations we must now also face the new problems created by our mechanization and technical brilliance. Have you ever looked down from an airplane into the heart of one of our nation's cities and seen the smoke and the smog? Have you ever walked beside a once clear but now polluted river or stream? Ecologists tell us that if we continue to destroy our environment at the present rate, then the earth will be fitted for human life for only 30 more years. Our problems seemingly say to us that these are the worst of times.

There Is Provision for Change

You have heard from new revolutionary groups that America must be torn down and rebuilt if we are to solve our problems. Have our problems become too big for America? Must polluted air and water, campus disorders, dirt, hate, drugs, and racial tension be the lot of so great a nation? Is it impossible to reverse our problems? Can we not change America without destruction? Are there no provisions for change left in America?

Think for just a minute about the beginning of the American "system." Turn back the pages of history with me to a meeting almost 200 years ago. A group of colonial leaders met in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania to discuss the future of their fledgling nation and to draft its constitution. For many days little progress was made. One hot day in July when tempers began to flare, a wise, grey-haired gentleman, Benjamin Franklin, stood and said, "There will have to be a lot more give and take here." As the Convention proceeded some monumental compromises were made. Soon the great Constitution of the United States was drafted and signed by the delegates.

Upon signing the Constitution, Benjamin Franklin turned his eyes to the chair in which Chairman George Washington sat during the Constitutional Convention. On the back of the chair was carved a half sun. (That sun looked much like the sun which has been used to designate my station during this convention—the ball of the sun seemingly was half above and half below the horizon.) Franklin said, "I have often wondered whether that sun was a rising sun or a setting sun, but I have concluded that it is a rising sun!" Benjamin Franklin and every other delegate to the Constitutional Convention left Philadelphia with the assurance that they had created a flexible system which could be changed and amended as the needs of the growing nation demanded. Indeed it was a rising sun! From that Constitutional Convention came the principles which have guided America for nearly 200 years.

Just after I was elected National President, I had the opportunity to visit that old, stately Independence Hall in Philadelphia. As I walked into that chamber where our Constitution was born, I remembered the story of the sun on Washington's chair. I asked myself as I silently bowed my head, "Have we forgotten that things can be changed without destroying America?" And I wondered almost aloud, "Is that sun which began to rise so many years ago still rising; or is that sun setting below the horizon in America?"

Tomorrow Will Be Better

Stretch your imagination just as far as you can . . . What will America be like in 10 years, in 20 years? Will she be greater? Or will our problems overcome us? Before you leave this Municipal Auditorium tonight, I hope that every one of you will be aware of the challenge ahead of us. What is the answer that we are seeking to our problems? The answer is you! The answer is me! The answer is to be found in the lives of concerned Americans everywhere! When America is united, there is no greater force. You and I must be a part of that great force helping to unite America into a greater nation, and tomorrow we must be prepared to feed and lead America.

Sir Winston Churchill often watched from his back yard as the Nazi bombers hammered and battered London during World War II. Even when things seemed bleak, when England seemed hopelessly beaten; Churchill would lean on his cane, grip a cigar between his teeth and repeat over and over again, "Tomorrow will be better. The day will come when we will win. The final victory will be ours!"

Though there are some who say that America is dying, I say we must fulfill our obligation to continue to fight to strengthen America. Though there are those who say that America has no hope, I say there is hope for those who want it badly enough. Though there are those who have said that the American dream will never be a reality; I say we have not failed to reach that dream until we have quit trying.

I believe we are here for three reasons tonight. We are here to say that we believe in agriculture; we are here to say that we believe in America; and we are here to say that we believe in tomorrow. Though at times it seems that everything we believe in is being bombarded; fellows, we must not lose faith. Our day will come. Tomorrow will be better. The final victory will be ours!

Never Give In

On another occasion in Churchill's life, he was invited to address the boys school at Harrow, the school that he had attended as a youngster. The headmaster told his students that Churchill was coming and that he would deliver an immortal message.

The day came and Churchill arrived. He pulled his glasses down over his nose and looked over the students. They were bright looking little fellows, but Sir Winston knew that their lives would be filled with hard knocks, disappointments, and troubles. In his speech he emphasized, "Never give in, never give in, never, never, never, never!" Ten words, but they contained a world of determination, and Churchill was living proof of the wisdom behind a "never say die" attitude.

I challenge all of you to survey the world around you—understand the signs of the times—determine the changes that must be made in America, and then let us proceed united to help "right the wrongs" in our nation. There will be some who will seek to discredit all that we believe to be truth. There will be those who will attempt to destroy all that we are building. But let us chart our course, let us follow our vision, let us reach toward our personal limitations for service to our families, to our communities, to America, and to God. Let us pursue the American dream of life and liberty for every American. Regardless of the obstacles, NEVER GIVE IN, NEVER GIVE IN, NEVER, NEVER, NEVER, NEVER!

My prayer for America is the same prayer that was put into musical form by its author, Irving Berlin:

God, bless America, land that I love
Stand beside her and guide her
Thru the night with a light from above
From the mountains to the prairies,
To the oceans, white with foam
God, Bless America,
My home sweet home.

THE HEARTBEAT STOPPED

DENNIS PHARRIS, National FFA Secretary

(Prelude to the address as Dennis is walking up on stage, there will be a sound of a heartbeat "thumping.")

The long life of a great individual just ended. The heartbeat stopped! Many may say it was the beat of the industrial wheels, the urban centers, the affluent society, the computer jungles, the war guns of Vietnam and the Middle East, the demonstration and protest movements—the heartbeat of the "establishment." Is that really the heartbeat that was snuffed out? No, it was the heartbeat of you and me. The heartbeat of a person who had enthusiasm, drive, individuality, optimism, hope and a prayer. We have become so concerned with the heartbeat of America that we have somehow forgot who America really is. America is you and me.

As we rise in the morning the question is posed in many ways from the newspaper, the radio, and television, how is the heartbeat of America today? Is it stronger or weaker? The farmer goes out to feed his livestock in the morning and he finds a number of them are dead. He's concerned over how many are dead; but moreover, what caused their death and how can he correct the problem so that more will not die. If America is going downhill, we should not be concerned of how far down the hill she is; but moreover what caused the slant downward and how can we correct the problem? Yes, the heartbeat we should be concerned with is our own. Therefore, is your heartbeat stronger or weaker? What kind of a person were you yesterday and are you a better person today? Did you extend a helping hand to others and show a love for your fellow man? When you were asked to lead, did you stand aside and let someone else do it or did you move ahead and say, "Yes, I'll do it." It is easy to be a common member of the crowd, but it takes effort to lead the crowd. Ask yourself, "Was God proud or ashamed of me today?" If your heartbeat had stopped today would you be satisfied with the life you had lived?

The real heartbeat of America does not lie in the wheels of industry, the hustle and bustle of the urban centers, or in the fields of Vietnam, but in the lives of you and me. The way we live our own lives effects the lives of others.

The national officers have had the opportunity to make a contribution in a very small way into the lives of others this year. I have noted that FFA is truly the big difference. As a unified organization, the FFA has tremendous impact on the lives of many young people outside the organization. The problems of youth unrest can be corrected, but they must be corrected within. Youth involvement in FFA and other youth organizations can be the solution.

As an individual, we must choose the path we shall travel. John Oxenham described our choice in the poem "The Ways."

To every man there openeth
A choice of ways to go;
And the high soul takes the high road
And the low soul takes the low,
And in between on misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro;
But to everyone there openeth
A high way and a low,
And everyone decideth
The way his soul shall go.

The quest now is not to strengthen the heartbeat of America, but the heartbeat of the people who make the country what it is today. With this disease cured we can say, "If there is a problem in our country, we can find the solution instead of proclaiming the problem." If we want a peaceful land, we can work toward it. If we want a cleaner and purer America we can be the promoters. If there is a communications gap, then we can help bridge the gap. If we want a better America, we can be better leaders and others will follow. Yes, with our enthusiasm, drive, individuality, optimism, hope, and with the help of God we can do it!

We must make every beat count because the next one might be our last. A few weeks ago, I sat in the Dallas airport waiting to board a plane when a young man was rolled into the waiting area in his wheel chair. I introduced myself and learned that he was Randy Sawyer, from Memphis, Tennessee. In talking with him, Randy told me that one of his legs had to be amputated in a Houston Hospital because of an incurable cancer. As I continued to visit with Randy, while waiting for the plane, occasional tears would roll down his cheeks, but when his plane was announced ready for boarding, the young man wiped away the tears. Before boarding, Randy remarked, "Our visit has meant a great deal to me and the rest of my life, thanks and good luck." That took great courage, for you see Randy was headed home to spend his last thirty days and live those final heartbeats before death. I thought to myself at 17 years old, how would I spend my last thirty days, probably not any differently because the last heartbeat is just as important as the one before.

I wonder how many of us are satisfied with what we are today? Are we satisfied enough with ourselves that if this were our last day, we would be happy with the life we had lived. The heartbeat that you heard earlier was pre-recorded for playing at an indefinite date. The heartbeats of you and I and many others are still beating and will continue if we are the big difference. I challenge each of you to contribute yourself to making the heartbeat of America a stronger one, by not only being the person God would have you to be, but by living the "Golden Rule"—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" and I assure you every heartbeat will be a meaningful contribution to a better America! (Heartbeat fades back before conclusion and remains through the end of address.)

PRIDE . . . A MEASURE OF AMERICA'S SUCCESS

CHARLES POSTLES, National Vice President, North Atlantic Region

America was founded on the capitalistic free enterprise system. It is an economic system that is designed to provide proper rewards to each person in proportion to the effort that he puts forth. It is a system that through hard work, regardless of one's beginning, he can rise to the top. It goes hand in hand with the democratic process, and also honors and respects the rights and freedoms of individuals to engage in those activities which they desire. The capitalistic free enterprise system encourages perfection because the workers know the better their performance the more they will be rewarded both monetarily and in personal satisfaction of a job well done—a feeling of contribution to society.

However, some have observed that this system is not working effectively today because people are not striving to make the system work. Some glowing examples are the teachers on strike this fall in various cities, and one may justly ask if they are really acting in the best interests of the students. Also, this fall the auto workers went on strike, making demands which would effect the economy of the country. This makes me wonder about the FFA member who wants to do just enough to get by. Will he ever be a state officer or receive the American Farmer Degree? In days of old, cobblers used to make entire shoes. They took pride in their work, realizing their reputation was at stake depending on the quality of their workmanship. With the coming of the industrial revolution, and the assembly line process, workers tend to lose their identity, and in so doing pride in their accomplishments.

In our free enterprise system, not all Americans are owners of a farm or business, and many do not want to be owners. Regardless of the difference in desire or position, all of us can be stockholders of America, and as stockholders receive the greatest return by investing the most. The vocational agriculture student can become an expert agricultural mechanic in doing a thorough job, knowing someone is relying on his workmanship; FFA members in training, likewise, to be landscape architects will take pride in making the surroundings more useful and beautiful. Just as important, is the FFA member trying to improve his leadership ability by participating in a public speaking contest; or doing his part for his community in the FFA "Building Our American Communities" program. All have something in common—a goal, a desire to work, and pride in their accomplishments.

Recently I visited an FFA chapter that had already begun work on their FFA BOAC project. They were cleaning up a roadside, and as one member tossed a soda pop bottle into the trash container, I read the words "No Deposit—No Return." I thought how true that is of our involvement in FFA activities. If there is no deposit, no participation, no sacrifices, there will be no returns.

By my station as Vice President is the plow, symbol of labor. Without labor, neither knowledge nor wisdom can accomplish much. Today in America, we have the greatest wealth of knowledge ever, but without work that great wealth is worth nothing. As FFA members, your knowledge of how to judge a contest, how to conduct a meeting, how to prepare yourself for life, how to say thank you to adults who care, is worth little unless you do it, and unless you take pride in the job you have done. Pride is a good measure of success. Pride, because it means gaining confidence because of a job well done, a valiant effort ending in success. Fellow members, are you proud that you are an FFA member? Do you take pride in working toward your goal? Do you anticipate a greater pride when you have reached the goals you set? I hope so, because pride is a measure of America's success. As a stockholder in America, what deposits will you make and what returns will you receive? One, I trust will be pride in yourself for the job you have done and will do in the future.

Thank you and God bless you all.

OURS IS TO LEAD

C. W. ST. JOHN, National Vice President, Southern Region

As I have traveled this year my faith in the citizenry of America has been confirmed and solidified. I have obtained an education that has broadened my outlook toward the future of the democratic system of government that we enjoy today. It is plain to see that in America we are experiencing the greatest experiment in human freedom and dignity ever attempted by man. But, it is an experiment not yet completed and each new generation of Americans must continue the efforts to make it better.

As Benjamin Franklin walked through the doors of Independence Hall after signing the Constitution a passerby on the street asked him, "Mr. Franklin, what have you given us?" His reply was simply, "A republic—if you can keep it." Yes, our forefathers won the Revolutionary War for us, but we must fight the battles of freedom and independence again and again with the dawning of each new day.

Too many citizens today are deserting their battle stations in these battles of freedom and independence; and too many are getting confused and firing upon our own men. The crisis that has developed in many of the large metropolitan areas today is not from a lack of concern of those people who are causing much of the trouble. Most of these people have a definite concern for their country, but this concern is twisted into violent ways due to a lack of leadership with a positive attitude. We know that the majority of the general public is destined to be followers of leaders, but people will follow a destructive leader as well, and as dedicated, as they will follow a constructive leader. It is evident that intelligent young people with good common sense and a positive attitude are needed to guide the concerned American youth—the kind of leadership we have in the FFA. You are the ones who can be that positive force in America.

We are told continually that we are the future of America—that we will one day lead the world. If that is true, the present is fast approaching the future. At no other time in history have the young people of not only America but of the world had such a voice in setting the policies and determining the actions of the nations around the globe. Truly we are not only the future of America; we are the NOW for America. It should be no other way. America has continued to remain strong because each generation has had a vested interest in the welfare of the next generation. There is much concern today for the environment, not because our generation fears extinction, but because there is a genuine interest for the welfare of future generations. FFA members have a splendid opportunity to make wise use of the knowledge obtained from the agriculture classrooms to become leaders in the field of ecology. There is a direct relationship between ecology and agriculture.

It has been said that the earth is a huge stage and that the people on it are its actors. We know that the success of any stage performance depends upon the performance of the individual actors; likewise the success of nations depends upon the individual citizens. It is hard to believe that merely improving one's own personal character will better the world, but you are a dreamer if you think the world will grow better and you do not improve yourself.

Success can be measured in many ways. According to Mrs. A. J. Stanley:

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty, or failed to express it, who has always looked for the best in others, and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction."

With this definition we can see that partial success may be obtained easily, but obtaining true and complete success is an endless journey to be traveled day after day as long as there are avenues of involvement available.

We know from reading the book of Genesis that "God created man in his own image," but we also know that man was not intended to be a stereotyped species. We all are as different as light and darkness and at the same time as alike as products from the same assembly line—and rightly so. We have the God given right to think, to believe, and to perform as individuals. The responsibilities of living in an organized society should not infringe on these God given rights, but rather there should be a compromise between individual rights and responsibilities to society.

This generation as all the others before it, has distinguished itself from those previous generations by our very existence here. This generation like the others before it will go down in the books of history as contributing to either the development, the evolution, or the destruction of this civilization. It is plain to see that each generation has a mission to accomplish on this earth; whether this mission is a pre-determined mission or merely one that evolves is not to be disputed here. Rather we should be more concerned that we do accomplish something relevant and beneficial. Let us begin now that we do not fail in our mission for: Ours Is To Lead.

NOW

DAVE DIETZ, National Vice President, Pacific Region

The day dawned in total darkness, blackness shrouded all the hours, night-time was all-time—and people sat and talked, doing nothing and speaking in a mindless gibberish—and the word think was extinct.

This is certainly not the optimistic future we all opt for. In fact it sounds like a foretelling of 1984, but it could well be the consequences of the lack of challenge and constructive motivation undertaken on the part of a majority of today's young people. To think, to understand, to act in a constructive manner when glory is not forthcoming is to work, and that seems beyond comprehension to so many. Future Farmers, you should count your blessings. You have been and are being reared in an environment that encourages competition, rewards mindful innovations and stimulates the learning process. God granted man no finer attribute than the opportunity to develop his mind. Not to do so is a mortal sin.

To learn is to fulfill life's hopes. To learn. How often have you heard the educating process called a learning situation? I fear that this is too often a lost conception in education, and that too many times we talk in terms of teaching only. Teaching is but a small part of the game, learning is the key and that requires thought and interest by you. One of the regards I hold most highly for vocational agriculture and the FFA is that they promote the learning process. You gather knowledge of the theories of agriculture and put into practice that which has been taught to you. Again, be thankful and mindful for the blessings of such a chance.

If this is the case, then why is not everyone given some self same opportunity? The reason lies in our unique living situation. We have been born into lightness by virtue of our rural backgrounds. The candle of learning has been lit within the vocational agriculture classroom and motivation has been supplied by the FFA programs. Not to grow in mind and deed is to forfeit your future.

For our peers who do not take the chance to understand or do not take advantage of similar opportunities, I have only disgust. Rather than looking towards means of constructive involvement, these young people either stagnate mentally or vent their pent up energies in a destructive fashion. The lack of mental stimulus and motivation results in an evil end. Either they become vegetables unto themselves or a social liability for all. This is the darkness which threatens us. I prefer to think in optimistic terms though. I like to think in terms of lightness, for it is all the more easy to see and understand that which surrounds us, and understanding will lead to the eventual reconciliation of today's troubled times.

Perhaps one of the finest summations of the attitude we should carry, was given by an unknown poet. The words can strengthen and encourage us all.

The storm shall dash thy face
The murk of war and worse
Than war shall cover thee all over, (Wert capable of war, its tug trials? Be capable of peace,
Its Trials,
For the tug and mortal strain of nations comes at last in Prosperous peace, not war)
But thou shalt face thy fortunes,
Thy diseases and surmount them all.
The present holds thee not,
For such vast growth as thine
For such unparalleled flight as Thine, such brood as thine,
The future only holds thee
And can hold thee.

The future will hold us, perhaps embrace us readily, because we have seen the light of learning. The cry of ages, challenge, rings out once again but with increasing peril for lack of action by us. That action which is so readily available and most certain to help resolve our perils is the FFA program, for it embodies all that is important. The chance to become constructively involved, to develop your potentials, to understand all that is around you, to establish a relevant set of values, to build for a prosperous, productive future, is yours through FFA action. If you do not grasp that which is so readily available only you are to blame for your shortcomings.

To deny your future is to live a life of death. To fail to learn, to think, to understand is to sink in the abyss of darkness. Believe me, my fellow compatriots for tomorrow, the time of the future is now.

James V. Smith, Administrator, Farmers Home Administration.

A TIME FOR US

STEVE ZUMBACH, National Vice President, Central Region

With the close of this convention so will end my term as a national officer and six years of membership in the FFA. For me, it has been a time of growth, a time of preparation, and most importantly, a time to come to know and understand the youth of our country. My year as a national officer has given me the opportunity to observe the nation's young people in many different times, in many different ways, and many different places. It seemed, all of us, in our own little way were preparing for a time—a time when we will assume our role in society, a time when our presence will be felt, and a time when we will take our place amongst the world of men.

We dream of tomorrow. In many respects our dreams seem quite similar to the dreams of two classic romantics of old, Romeo and Juliet. In their very beautiful song, "A Time for Us," Romeo and Juliet sing and dream of their tomorrow and somehow their thoughts seem quite appropriate for our generation today. They sang of—

A time for us
At last to see a life worthwhile for you and me
And with our love through tears and thorns we will endure
As we pass surely through every storm.

A time for us
Some day there will be a time for us
Some day there will be a new world
A world of shining hope for you and me.

Yes, we as young people are looking forward to that time tomorrow, with a new world of shining hope for you and me. However, just as individuals vary so do the mechanisms by which we as youth prepare for our times tomorrow. With great pride, I observed you the members of FFA and other youth groups develop your hidden powers in preparation for your time. With great admiration, I observed many of our fellow peers devote time and effort in service to make other's tomorrow more enjoyable. With respect I observed many of the nation's young people become politically awakened and express concern about war, poverty, and pollution in an attempt to make our time in the world tomorrow a better place to live.

At other times this year, however, I was deeply saddened by several of our fellow peers who were also trying to build their time tomorrow. With great remorse I observed the destruction of Honeywell Headquarters in Minneapolis which was partially destroyed during a demonstration by youth. I observed several of our fellow peers in a rehabilitation ward for dope addicts in New York City who by copping out on drugs will have no time tomorrow. With great sorrow I visited the Kent State Campus where four youth were killed because of a deepening canyon of misunderstanding between the youth and adults of this country. For them, their time will never come. Their tomorrow will never dawn.

But what of our dreams, what of our tomorrows, will they dawn, will there be a time for us? Hopefully our dreams and hopes of tomorrow will dawn and will come and not be shattered as they were for a gentleman I know quite well. In conversations with this man, he told me that as a youth he dreamed of the time when he would become successful in business. His dreams came true for today, he is one of the wealthiest men in my home State. During other visits, he informed me of his boyhood dreams to be a man of power and influence. His dreams once again came true for he became one of the more influential men in the politics of our State. Later in life this man had another dream, a dream held even more dearly than the first, that being, his son Rob, who was my age, would also leave his mark on society. I knew Rob during his late high school years, and it seemed as if the father's dream for his son would easily become a reality. Rob distinguished himself quite easily during high school academically and continued on in a similar manner during his first year of college. However, all dreams for this young man's future were abruptly shattered this fall, when Rob committed suicide during a bad drug trip. To many the conclusion was clear, Rob's father was so preoccupied with success in business and promoting his influence that his greatest dream for tomorrow would never become reality.

Today, we as youth, like Rob's father, became so preoccupied with colorful dreams that some of our ultimate goals are passing us by. We may dream of high powered automobiles and expensive hobbies. Later many of us romanticize ourselves as ending wars and stopping pollution. In viewing our socially concerned and humanitarian oriented generation, I think it's wonderful that we have so many good intentioned individuals. But, how much better it would be if we had a few more people who not only had good intentions, but also performed good deeds. There are too many individuals that merely wish to be soapbox orators, painting beautiful dreams of Utopia, but do not put forth the initiative to see their dreams for tomorrow become reality. What ails America will not be solved by those who heighten their emotional experience through drugs and dreams of love; nor those who strum their guitars and sing of peace. When it becomes fashionable to replace our revolutionary rhetoric with deeds our time and world tomorrow will be a much better place in which to live. Although we as young romantics envision ourselves as ending wars, eradicating poverty, and stopping pollution, we may serve society in a less glamorous capacity but yet possibly more effectively by working to improve our own small communities, and most importantly developing our own hidden powers.

Hopefully, we haven't become so preoccupied as did Rob's father with worldly objectives, that when our time comes tomorrow, we will not find ourselves sadly lacking for having neglected the opportunity to develop our God given talents.

While in New York City, the national officers heard these thoughts summarized quite effectively by Reverend Norman Vincent Peale. In his concluding remarks to the congregation, he stated that "God's gift to man was life, what man did with that life was his gift to God." In order that we can have assurance that there will be time for us, and that our lives would truly be a gift to God, it would be well to start by preparing ourselves now.

My time as a National FFA Officer has come and now gone. Your gift to me last fall was the opportunity to serve, what I did with that opportunity is my gift to you. How well I honored you with the time you have given to me can only stand as your judgment. I care not if my year be considered great, fair or poor, but when the final records are written, I would just hope that by my name that could be said with what capabilities I had, I used them to my best to serve you and the FFA.

My time of standing beside you as an FFA member has now come to a close. But, once again we shall stand together side by side in yet even a greater challenge—that challenge—when the time for us comes to take our place amongst the world of men. Hopefully these challenges that face the new generation can be met and met victoriously. May we in a search for a time for us replace the canyons of misunderstanding that separate the young and old and march victoriously together toward a better America and a better world.

Hopefully our quest for a "Time for Us" does not follow the same sad pattern of Romeo and Juliet. Only through their tragic deaths could the conflicts that faced their families be resolved. Rather than tragedy, may we dedicate ourselves to resolving our conflicts with a spirit of personal development and understanding so that there might be—

A time for us
At last to see a life worthwhile for you and me
And with our love through tears and thorns we will endure
As we pass surely through every storm.

A time for us
Some day there will be a time for us
Some day there will be a new world
A world of shining hope for you and me.

NATIONAL OFFICER HIGHLIGHTS

DENNIS PHARRIS, National FFA Secretary

Life's Lesson—Learn to make the most of life,
Lose no happy day,
Time can never bring thee back—
Chances swept away—
Leave no tender word unsaid.
Love while life shall last—
The Mill never turns again with water that has past.

This year we six National Officers have had the opportunity to make the most of our lives. We have had many memorable experiences while serving you. It is only fitting that we share some of these highlights with you.

We are indebted to many fine people for helping to make our year so successful. First of all, we are thankful to God for the guidance and protection He has provided. We are indeed grateful to our parents for their continued assistance and support in order that we might fulfill our duties and responsibilities. A very sincere note of gratitude goes to our "Coach," Mr. Gray for his guidance and understanding as we worked together to complete our obligations. Mr. Harris, we appreciate your never ending interest and enthusiasm in working with us. We are thankful for Mr. Hunsicker for his dedication and staunch determination to assure the continued progress of FFA. The National Staff, Board of Directors, and many others have impressed us greatly by their concern, eagerness, and diligent work put forth to see the FFA take another step forward. Service is a privilege we chose to partake of by running for office, but it has been a distinct honor to have served those fellow members who elected us. Your friendship, support, and diligent cooperation have truly proved that we are all united as one body working for one profound purpose.

As we walked off this stage one year ago, we walked off with great anticipation and willingness to serve. This opportunity was provided us, but also along with this came great moments of happiness and inspiration for us.

One year ago the flow of water began as the National Officers started to travel. Harry headed for the National Grange Convention in Florida. Steve was at the National Farm Bureau Convention in Washington, D. C. and I was in Omaha for the Farm-City Exchange Conference.

Soon after the New Year we were all in Washington for leadership training and meetings. We were honored to visit with many Senators and Congressmen and members of the President's Cabinet. As FFA ambassadors we left Washington on The 23rd Annual Good-Will Tour, which carried us into 20 major cities in 15 states. We visited 116 major corporations in the country. Our visits acquainted many new friends with the FFA and related our appreciation to the outstanding people and sponsors who support us through the National FFA Foundation. We climaxed our tour visiting with President Nixon who wholeheartedly endorsed the new FFA program—"Building Our American Communities."

After the Board of Directors meeting in Washington, we all went our separate ways and visited the 50 State Conventions. We found ourselves making new friends, participating in State convention activities, and learning of the accomplishments of each State Association we visited.

As the months passed by, new pages were written into FFA history. Dave represented FFA on a trip around the world and provided help and encouragement to the newly organized Future Farmers of Vietnam. Harry represented the organization at the Triumph of Agriculture in Omaha and the National Farmers Union Convention in Denver. Charles attended the Post Secondary Occupational Education Seminar in Washington, while Steve was at the Minneapolis Farm Forum and the National DECA Convention. C. W. was in Dallas for the Guidance Counselors meeting for Southern States and I was at the National Office Education Association Convention.

The months of June and July found all of us in and out of Washington, D. C. for Leadership & Citizenship Conferences that involved 410 Chapter Officers and 75 State Officers. The officers attended 8 sub-regional leadership conferences, nationwide, where leadership workshops for state officers were held.

The Board of Directors meeting highlighted the summer and also found the officers attending many other conferences. C. W. was in Lincoln for the National Agricultural Youth Institute and the Mid-South Fair. Steve was active with the VICA and FHA conventions and he also paid a visit to the American Institute of Cooperation. Charles was in Philadelphia where he attended the National FBLA convention. Harry was in Utah for the National Animal Science Convention. Dave headed up the Drug Abuse Conference in Washington and I was in Michigan for Camp Minnawanka along with many other FFA representatives.

Among other activities, the National Officers visited 161 chapters, spoke at 112 chapter banquets and 57 Service Clubs.

These are only a few of the significant highlights of a flowing river that got its start one year ago. Service was our duty and we hope we have served you well. We hope our efforts have inspired others, but you truly have inspired us by your desire to cooperate and your never ceasing belief in an organization that is yours and is only as good or big as you make it. FFA is not great because of the structure, nor because of the National Officers or the National Staff, but because of you, the endless flow of water that affords great opportunities to many young people—the Flowing River of FFA.

An ambitious young man asked a great merchant to reveal the secret of success. “Just jump at opportunity,” answered the merchant. “But,” said the young man, “how can I tell when my opportunity is coming?” “You can’t,” replied the merchant, “just keep jumping.”

AUDITING COMMITTEE

We, the members of the Auditing Committee, have reviewed and inspected the general records and financial statements of the National Organization of the Future Farmers of America. We found that the accounts kept by our National Treasurer, Mr. J. M. Campbell, and his secretary, Mrs. Pauline Coiner, for the fiscal year July 1, 1969 through June 30, 1970, were true and correct in every respect and that our organization was in sound financial condition.

We also received and reviewed the audit of Lybrand, Ross Bros. and Montgomery, Certified Public Accountants.

We wish to commend Mr. Campbell and Mrs. Coiner for their fine job of keeping the FFA accounts, and to thank Dr. Woodrow W. Wilkerson, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Virginia State Board of Education, for allowing Mr. Campbell to give of his time to the task of serving as our National FFA Treasurer.

Respectfully submitted,

MARK SMITH, Minnesota (Chairman)
 JOHN FOGELL, Rhode Island
 EDWIN S. HOLMES, Massachusetts
 STEPHEN BAUM, Louisiana

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS COMMITTEE

We, the National FFA Convention Proceedings Committee for 1970, having reviewed the 42nd National Convention Proceedings, recommend the following:

1. Include the farewell speeches of the National Officers and the National Public speaking winner.
2. Include the names of the newly elected National Officers in the minutes.
3. Request that every chapter preserve at least one copy of the National Convention Proceedings for reference by chapter members.

Respectfully submitted,

TIMOTHY J. BURKE, Iowa (Chairman)
BARRY GEORGE, Georgia
LAWRENCE NAGATA, Hawaii
HARRY RILEY, West Virginia
ALLEN QUIGLEY, New Hampshire
JAY COX, Oklahoma
LOREN HUNT, Arizona

THE NATIONAL FFA SUPPLY SERVICE COMMITTEE

The National FFA Supply Service Committee hereby recommends:

1. That the Supply Service study the feasibility of developing a blue corduroy A-line skirt and vest with standard lettering similar to the boys' jacket for girl members.
2. That the Supply Service move forward with an official dress for girls and the states be kept informed on progress made in this direction.
3. That the Supply Service report progress made at the 1971 National FFA Convention.
4. That the Supply Service investigate the feasibility of selling a notebook similar to the small black binder used by the National Officers.
5. That the Supply Service investigate the feasibility of an official FFA attaché case.
6. That the Supply Service investigate the cost of producing and selling an official FFA date book.

The committee would like to commend the Future Farmers Supply Service for their loyal, undivided service to the Future Farmers of America.

Respectfully submitted,

ROGER FOULKS, Indiana (Chairman)

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAM OF ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

We, the International Program of Activities Committee, for 1970 submit the following goal:

To provide for an exchange of ideas with agriculturally oriented groups abroad and at home, and to exchange organizational ideas in order to further our mutual goals in agricultural education.

We suggest the following objectives to achieve this goal:

1. Spend designated FFA International Activities funds on the Future Farmer Globe, an international magazine about the FFA.
2. Expand and improve "Work Experience" programs, with all countries willing to participate.
3. Encourage State Associations and local chapters to undertake International programs and exchanges.
4. Work closely with Foreign Ministries of Education in exchange programs.
5. Establish an International Agricultural Youth Conference for 1976.
6. Recommend to the NVATA that they undertake an agricultural teacher exchange with foreign countries.
7. Utilize American representatives in foreign countries more efficiently to help develop necessary contacts with agriculturally oriented youth groups.
8. Work closely with foundations and organizations with common objectives and goals.
9. Continue to explore new areas for financing of International programs.
10. Utilize exchange visitors on the chapter, state and national levels in order to stimulate more interest in International programs.

At a time in history when two-thirds of the world goes hungry, when 20% of the people own and control 80% of the resources, when the gap between "developed" and "developing" nations widens each day, FFA should commit itself to provide encouragement and assistance wherever possible to help improve agricultural conditions, and make the world a better place to live.

Respectfully submitted,

LEE PITTS, California (Chairman)
LANDIS PHILLIPS, North Carolina
CRAIG PASSEY, Idaho
DAVID JACQUIER, Connecticut
ROBERT S. HORSEY, Delaware
LARRY FRACE, New Jersey

NATIONAL CONVENTION PROGRAM COMMITTEE

After reviewing the 1970 National Convention, we the Convention Program Committee, submit the following recommendations to the Board of Directors and Executive Committee:

1. That more attention be given to convention planning in the following areas:
 - a. Exact list of award recipients who are present should be in the chairman's hands prior to the session in which the award is to be given.
 - b. Improved coordination of the audio-visual effects.
 - c. Programming of ceremonies and presentations.

2. That key convention photos be made available to members at the convention to reduce the distraction of members taking pictures.
3. That all FFA members be on time and prepared for all sessions of which they are a part. They should remain in attendance until dismissed, by the chairman.
4. That the Star Agribusiness ceremony be held at a night session.
5. We commend the membership on the high standard of dress and conduct.
6. We commend the organist, band, and chorus for a job well done.
7. We considered the Vespers service, career show, FFA tours and the general appearance of the convention to be outstanding, and we commend those who were responsible.
8. We commend and extend special thanks to all of the supporters of the FFA who helped make the convention a success.
9. We recognize the very outstanding job that all of the national officers have done during this convention and throughout the past year.

Respectfully submitted,

GARY HUBLER, Maryland (Chairman)
HENRY HAMPTON, North Carolina
CORTNEY DAHL, Nevada

NATIONAL FFA CALENDAR COMMITTEE

We wish to commend the FFA Calendar staff, under the direction of Jack Pitzer, for the development, promotion and success of our Calendar program.

To further promote and develop the public relations value of the National FFA Calendar, we make the following recommendations:

1. Institute ways to inform chapters of our calendar program.
 - a. Have State officers explain the calendar programs during chapter visits.
 - b. Individual chapters may obtain information from the National Calendar staff.

Calendar Department
The National FUTURE FARMER Magazine
P. O. Box 15130
Alexandria, Virginia 22309
2. Institute National and State recognition for chapters that participate in the Official FFA Calendar Program.
 - a. Present a national recognition certificate signed by the National President and National Advisor to each chapter.
 - b. Provide in the respective State newsletters recognition for chapters participating in the Official Calendar Program.
3. Encourage that the Calendar makeup and constitution reflect the new image of FFA.
 - a. Include in the Calendar pictures such as FFA's involvement in Building Our American Communities and in being involved in America's future.
4. Encourage each member of the FFA to have an Official FFA Calendar.
5. Propose an incentive program to chapters to participate in the Official Calendar program.
 - a. Provide plastic pocket calendars with the purchase of a minimum order.
 - b. Provide desk type appointment calendars with the purchase of a minimum order.

6. All chapters strive to provide quality 4 x 5 color transparencies for possible publication in the FFA Calendar and in the National FUTURE FARMER Magazine.
7. Chapters should be encouraged to place orders in the spring. To insure pre-holiday delivery, orders should be received no later than December 1.

Respectfully submitted,

BILL NELSON, Colorado
DALE BOYETT, Florida
ALLEN QUINTIN, Missouri
STEVE DOWER, Texas
PAUL DUREPE, Maine

NATIONAL FFA FOUNDATION COMMITTEE

On behalf of the National FFA Organization, we the National FFA Foundation Committee of the 43rd National Convention, wish to express our gratitude to the Foundation sponsors for their contributions to our organization.

We extend a most sincere thanks to Mr. Samuel W. White, Jr., Vice President, Borg-Warner Corporation, and 1970 Chairman of the Foundation Sponsoring Committee; Mr. Donald N. McDowell, Executive Director of the National FFA Foundation Sponsoring Committee; and Mr. Robert Seefeldt, Manager of Contests and Awards of the FFA.

We submit the final recommendations to the National FFA Foundation Board of Trustees:

1. That we commend Mr. Bob Seefeldt and the members of his committee for a job well done in producing the packet of Proficiency Awards. This is one of the most significant changes in the history of the FFA and will surely do much toward increasing participation in the awards program.
2. That the states take the following action in the awards area:
 - a. Encourage increased participation for Proficiency Awards.
 - b. Further publicize these new facets of our awards program.
 - c. Encourage advisors to make these Proficiency Award packets available to the students.
 - d. Make this packet available to State officers.
3. That the national staff look into the expansion of the Livestock Proficiency Award to include such areas as minks, dogs, etc.
4. That an award be made available to parallel the Star Chapter Farmer Award on the chapter level called the Star Chapter Agribusiness Award.
5. That we support the allocation of National Foundation cash awards as is.
6. That state and local officers, and members work closely with the Farmers Home Administration in developing the "Building Our American Communities" Program.
 - a. Each chapter should survey the local community as to its resources in relation to this program.
 - b. We strongly suggest that each chapter do at least one project during 1970-71.
7. That National FFA Foundation awards be emphasized at the Washington Leadership Conferences.
8. That all Foundation awards be emphasized as much as possible on the regional, state and local level.

9. That Mr. Seefeldt look into the possibilities of revising the National Chapter Award form and the National Chapter Safety Award form.
10. That the possibility of visiting the Regional Star Farmer and Star Agribusiness applicants to review their programs be considered.

NATIONAL FUTURE FARMER MAGAZINE COMMITTEE

We, the members of the National FFA Magazine Committee for 1970, submit the following recommendations for improvement and increased interest in the National FFA Magazine:

1. More articles written by the national officers included in the Magazine.
2. Encourage local chapters to accurately submit names and addresses of chapter membership rosters to the National Magazine.
3. Encourage inspirational and informative articles concerning success of former and present FFA members.
4. Inform readers of need for quality pictures submitted for possible use in the Magazine, and encourage chapter members and advisors to submit high quality articles concerning unusual projects that would interest FFA members.
5. The National FFA Magazine inform readers of items and business concerning actions of our National Board of Directors and to be printed at appropriate times.
6. Encourage publication of articles representing all areas of agricultural industries and FFA activities.
7. This committee report be published in the next issue of The National FUTURE FARMER Magazine to inform every member of our recommendations and how each individual can contribute to the improvement of the Magazine.

Respectfully submitted,

LEADERSHIP TRAINING COMMITTEE

We, the members of the Leadership Training Committee for 1970, feel that leadership must be developed in the FFA at the local, State and national levels. To fulfill this need in part, we recommend the following:

1. A State and National Officers' Washington Conference be held the third week of July 1971, for National Officers, State FFA Association Presidents and one other representative from each state. Emphasis should be placed on obtaining special project funding through the National FFA Foundation to finance this important program. In the event that funds are not available for this conference from the FFA Foundation, we strongly recommend that the conference be continued, allowing states that can afford the expense to send their state representatives.

This conference should be designed to meet the needs of state officers. The program should be planned by the National FFA staff and conducted by the National Officers.

2. The sub-regional conferences should be planned earlier (six weeks in advance) and more completely. These programs should be publicized to encourage more state participation. National Officers and staff should participate in all sub-regional conferences. Only current state officers should participate in the conference programs.
3. Leadership-Citizenship and Chapter Impact Conferences should be continued as a part of the Washington Conference Program.
4. We approve and support the addition of two new conferences to the Washington Conference Program.
 - a. The Agriculture Public Relations Conference for local, area and state FFA reporters to be held in Washington, August 2-7, 1971.
 - b. The Agriculture Career Conference for local, area and State Agricultural Proficiency Award winners to be held in Washington, August 9-14, 1971.
5. A list of leadership materials available from the National Organization should be distributed to chapter FFA advisors annually.
6. States should exchange ideas and materials on leadership development at various leadership conferences.
7. All FFA chapter members should take advantage of all opportunities offered in FFA leadership activities.

Respectfully submitted,

MANUAL REVIEW AND REVISION COMMITTEE

The 1970 FFA Manual Review and Revision Committee met and after reviewing the very fine report of the 1969 committee, we recommend the following for the 1971 edition:

1. Photographs
 - a. That those photos on Pages 19, 44, 48, 58, 59, 82, top of 87, 91, 93, 96, 127 and 128, be updated, without changing the theme which they portray.
 - b. That the photo on Page 34 be replaced by the one taken of the 1969-70 National Officers with President Nixon.

- c. That the photo on Page 47 be coordinated with the calendar above it.
 - d. That a photograph of the 1928 National Convention be included in the historical sketch.
 - e. That a photo of the 1970 delegate body be included in the Constitution section.
 - f. That a photograph of FFA Vice President Dave Dietz on his recent international good-will tour be included in the International Program section on Pages 20 and 21.
2. That the section entitled "Collegiate Chapters" on Page 114, be expanded in accordance with any business transacted at this convention.
 3. That only the lyrics, not the musical score be included in the FFA song section.
 4. That a sample year-round public relations program for local chapters be included after the publicity section.
 5. That an orderly precedence of motions chart be included in the parliamentary procedure section.
 6. That a section be inserted that includes the total membership of the FFA by States. This to include both the current and previous year.

PROGRAM OF ACTIVITIES (LOCAL GUIDE) COMMITTEE

Upon reviewing the guide for local chapters to use in developing a program of activities, the committee feels that the present guide as printed in the 1970 Official FFA Manual is complete and accurate, except for recommendations in the following divisions:

1. Division I, Activity 6, delete present "Goal 1" and substitute "Encourage and assist FFA members to engage in farm placement and agribusiness work experience programs."
2. Division I, Activity 6, add "d" to "Ways and Means," "Select and honor Chapter Star Agribusinessman."
3. We recommend an introductory paragraph at the beginning of Division III, Community Services, as follows: "It is recommended that local chapters participate in the 'Building Our American Communities' program and follow the guideline developed by the FFA in cooperation with the Farmers Home Administration."

INFORMATION PROGRAM COMMITTEE

We, the National FFA Information Program Committee for 1970-71, recommend the following:

1. National Officers be a highlight of State Conventions. Every State Association should encourage the exchange of officers at State Conventions.
2. Expand work of the Public Relations Corps at the convention to assist in gathering news.
3. Official dress be worn at all FFA functions to improve the image of the FFA.
4. That good personal appearance and conduct for every FFA member be stressed by FFA officers, teachers and supervisors.
5. Initiate weekly FFA radio broadcasts and try to obtain a TV special on local, State, and National levels.
6. That local chapters select outstanding representatives to speak before farm organizations, business, civic, and youth groups. Cooperative activities with other educational youth organizations be encouraged at all levels.
7. That the National FFA theme be used not only during FFA Week, but during the entire year, using public information materials made available by the Future Farmers Supply Service.
8. More effective use of Children's Barnyard at local and State Fairs by providing audio-visuals explaining the FFA program.
9. Complimentary subscriptions of The National FUTURE FARMER Magazine be sent to businessmen by local chapters.
10. That chapters sponsor parent-member banquets and other activities to acquaint leaders of business, community and education with the FFA program.
11. That the National Officers' tour cover all segments of industry and different regions of the country each year; state and local officers are encouraged to initiate similar programs.
12. That every chapter actively participate in the FFA "Building Our American Communities" program and use the available materials effectively.
13. That commendation be given the national public relations staff for improvement in the national public relations program and encourage development of new materials in the future.

RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE

We, the Resolutions Committee, recommend that the Future Farmers of America extend our sincere appreciation for the contributions of individuals and groups who have made this convention a huge success:

1. To the members of the National Board of Directors, staff of the National FFA Organization, and State Staffs for their conscientious effort and continuing assistance to members of the Future Farmers of America.

2. To the 1969-70 National Officers for providing inspiration and leadership necessary for the success of this convention.
3. To Mr. Samuel W. White, Jr., 1970 Chairman of the FFA Foundation Sponsoring Committee, for his aggressive leadership of that organization.
4. To Mr. Donald McDowell, Executive Director of the National FFA Foundation Sponsoring Committee, for his efforts in soliciting support for the Foundation.
5. To Mr. Art Linkletter for his timely and inspiring remarks to the convention.
6. To the Kansas City FFA Convention Advisory Committee, the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, and the management and staff of the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium for their willingness to serve the FFA.
7. To Honorable Ilus W. Davis, Mayor of Kansas City, Missouri, the residents of Kansas City and the Kansas City Police Force for their hospitality and warm welcome.
8. To the American Royal for providing an educational and entertaining day of activities for the FFA.
9. To the outstanding guest speakers who appeared on our program: The Honorable Robert D. Ray, Dr. Leon Minear, Mr. Fess Parker, Mr. James V. Smith, Mr. Louis Strong, and the Honorable Ed Jones.
10. To Mr. Roger Heath, Mr. James Dougan, Mr. Marvin Myers, Mr. Don Erickson, Dr. James Clouse, and their assistants for their outstanding work with the Band, Chorus, Courtesy Corps, Talent, Ushers, Stage Crews and Arena Floor Crews.

NATIONAL FFA PROGRAM OF ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

We, the members of the National Program of Activities Committee have carefully reviewed and inspected the proposed 1971 National Program of Activities, and submit the following recommendations to the Boards of National Officers and Directors for their consideration:

1. That the changes proposed by the 1970 committee be retained.

These are:

- a. That the National Program of Activities be divided into three main areas: Service, Organizational Operations, and Cooperative Activities.
 - b. That these three main areas of activity be further divided into sub-headings of "Items," "Goals," and "Ways and Means."
 - c. That "Goals" be made measurable and specific, using definite figures or numbers as often as possible.
 - d. That a fifth column titled "accomplishments" be added to the National Program of Activities. The purpose of this column would be to see if goals are being attained.
 - e. That an annual report be made at each National FFA Convention enumerating accomplishments.
 - f. That an annual report be made and distributed to each FFA chapter so that the progress of the National Program of Activities will be known to all FFA members.
2. That the two following changes be made in the suggested 1971 Program of Activities:
 - a. Under the item National FUTURE FARMER Magazine, Goal 3, strike "Ways and Means a," retain "Ways and Means b."
 - b. Under the item Finance, Ways and Means a, to add the words "through local chapters and State Associations," will help to better define the National Program of Activities.

Respectfully submitted,

CRAIG LATHAM, Oregon (Chairman)

Report of the National FFA Treasurer

J. M. CAMPBELL

Mr. President and Members of the Future Farmers of America:

As National Treasurer of the Future Farmers of America, it is my privilege to report to you on the financial status of your organization.

We have distributed in the delegates' section, mimeographed material which you may review at your convenience. This material includes a statement of revenues and expenditures of the FFA for the fiscal year ended June 30, a report on the FFA Foundation for the period January 1 through September 30 of this year, and a summary of the financial status of the total organization.

Time does not permit my going into detail concerning the entire program. At this time, therefore, rather than reciting a lot of figures, I would like to explain briefly the financial set-up of your organization and summarize the financial status of the national organization with all of its divisions.

The total FFA program, as you are probably aware, is divided into four major areas of financial accounting, as follows:

- (a) The Future Farmers of America
- (b) The Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc.
- (c) The Future Farmers Supply Service
- (d) The National FUTURE FARMER Magazine

The Future Farmers Supply Service and the National FUTURE FARMER Magazine are owned by the FFA organization and operate under the general direction of the FFA Board of Directors. However, accounts and records for these two operations are kept separate from the general FFA funds and their books are separately audited. The Future Farmers Supply Service and National FUTURE FARMER Magazine are housed in our FFA building at the National FFA Center near Mt. Vernon, which is close to Washington, D. C., where our National FFA office is now located.

Income of the Future Farmers of America is derived from dues of members, royalties on merchandise bearing the FFA emblem, rent on the FFA building from the Future Farmers Supply Service and National FUTURE FARMER Magazine, and interest earned on funds held in reserve. (The major portion of royalties received is paid by the Future Farmers Supply Service.) National FFA dues include the cost of subscription to the FUTURE FARMER Magazine.

Expenses consist primarily of travel of the national officers and Board of Directors, national office expense, cost of operating the national convention, maintenance of our FFA building, and also the cost of your magazine subscription which is transferred to the FUTURE FARMER Magazine.

On page 4—statement of cash receipts and disbursements—we show a smaller number of separate investments. During the past year we have liquidated a number of the smaller investments as they reached maturity and re-invested in other types of savings, which yield a higher rate of interest.

The FFA Foundation receives its income from contributions of more than 450 sponsors, and interest on some reserve funds. It was suggested several years ago by some of our sponsors that we build up a reserve fund which would cover one year's operation, in the event of financial reverses. This we have attempted to do and this money has been invested to the very best advantage for the best rate of interest and safety of the funds.

During 1970 more than $220,000.00 has been received in contributions from some 450 sponsors. About 76 of these are contributing for the first time this year. Since 1944, when the FFA Foundation was organized, more than $4,373,000.00 has been contributed by business organizations and individuals. This manifestation of interest in your organization from year to year is something of which you can be very proud.

The greater part of the FFA Foundation budget is expended in connection with our incentive awards program, recognizing vocational agriculture student members of the FFA for outstanding achievement in agricultural and leadership activities. This incentive awards program is being expanded and up-dated from year to year.

The Future Farmers Supply Service receives its income from merchandise sold to FFA members, and its expenses consist of the cost of merchandise, operation of the Supply Service, and rent of the FFA Building.

The National FUTURE FARMER Magazine's income is derived from advertising and subscriptions. Its expenses consist of editing, printing, mailing of the magazine, and rental of space in the FFA Building.

Separate and more complete reports of the Future Farmers Supply Service and the National FFA Magazine will be given later by officials of those organizations.

The total net worth of your organization, including the FFA, the FFA Foundation, the Future Farmers Supply Service, and the National FUTURE FARMER Magazine, is well over $2,000,000.00.

I am Supervisor of Agricultural Education with the Virginia State Board of Education, with an office in Richmond, Virginia. The FFA Treasurer's office is located in Woodstock, Virginia, where the books and records of the FFA and the FFA Foundation are kept by Mrs. Pauline Coiner.

A separate set of records and account books is kept for the FFA and the FFA Foundation. A large portion of our operating funds is maintained in separate accounts in the Shenandoah Valley National Bank in Winchester, Virginia. At present we have in this bank and other banks and savings associations, a total of $146,415.40 of FFA funds, and $446,079.57 of Foundation funds, earning interest.

Both Mrs. Coiner and I are bonded to assure protection of the funds in our care. A separate audit of each account is made annually by Certified Public Accountants—Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery. Copies of these audits are presented to the Boards of Student Officers, Directors and Trustees of the FFA and the FFA Foundation, for review in detail during Board meetings. The records are also reviewed by your FFA Auditing Committee, and are available for examination by any individual member.

A combined audit of all FFA funds is also made annually and submitted to Congress, as required by law. Every safeguard is exercised in handling the funds of your organization.

In closing this report I would like to say that the National FFA Finance Committee, consisting of members from the Board of Directors, is in the process of studying the financial structure of the three major divisions of your National FFA organization. It is anticipated that these studies will suggest ways to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of our accounting system.

NATIONAL CHAPTER AWARDS PROGRAM

The National FFA Chapter Awards Program, conducted annually by the national organization, is designed to encourage and reward chapter effort, stimulate group action among members, and encourage improvement in local chapter programs of activities. The awards program has been a valuable aid in stimulating both individual and cooperative effort, and in crystallizing chapter programs of work into a series of worthwhile activities.

National FFA Officers reviewing the National FFA Foundation Exhibit showing the many areas of awards and recognition available to FFA members. They are giving special attention to the national chapter awards plaques, and agreeing that every chapter should be a "Superior" chapter, with the attractive plaque placed on the classroom wall.

Chapters were grouped into Gold, Silver and Bronze Emblem classifications, according to their record of accomplishments in supervised farming, cooperative activities, community service, leadership activities, earnings and savings by members, conduct of meetings, scholarship of members, recreation and participation in State and National activities.

NATIONAL CHAPTER SAFETY AWARDS

The National Chapter Safety Awards Program is designed to stimulate activities by local chapters which will result in the more widespread use of safety rules, thus lessening the tremendous suffering and loss of life, time and property that is caused each year by preventable farm accidents and fires.

The best applications from each State on the basis of one chapter per 5,000 members or major fraction thereof, were sent to their various regional offices where a panel of experts ranked them in the Gold, Silver and Bronze Emblem awards.

There were 24 Gold Emblem Chapters, 26 Silver Emblem Chapters and 20 Bronze Emblem Chapters.

The winning chapters are as follows:

NATIONAL FFA PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

The National FFA Public Speaking Contest is held in Kansas City. It is the final elimination of a nationwide contest that started in local chapters with winners progressing through area or federation competition, then State contests, and four Regional contests.

Each of the four boys who participated in the national contest already had won a medal at the local chapter level and a $100 prize at the State level. The winner of the national contest received $300. Other awards are $275 for second, $250 for third, and $225 for fourth. All awards and travel funds are provided by the Future Farmers of America Foundation. The FFA Foundation provided $4,000.00 to help pay the travel expenses of State winners to regional contests.

Each contestant spoke from 6 to 8 minutes on an agricultural subject of his own choosing, then was subjected to five minutes of questioning by the judges. Scoring was done on the basis of speech delivery, manuscript, and answers to questions.

JUDGES:

Frank Carlson, Concordia, Kansas (Former U. S. Senator from Kansas)

Merril T. Cartwright, Director, Prentiss County Vocational Technical School, Booneville, Mississippi (National FFA Vice President, 1949-50)

G. A. Christians, Vice President, Merchandising, Massey-Ferguson Inc., Des Moines, Iowa

TIMEKEEPERS:

John J. Dierbeck, Public Relations Manager, Farm and Industrial Equipment, International Harvester Company, Chicago, Illinois

Edward J. Sawtell, Assistant Manager, Public Relations Department, Ford Motor Company, Tractor and Implement Operations, North America, Birmingham, Michigan

A THING CALLED LEADERSHIP

KEVIN HALL

I'd like to relate to you a story of a young boy, who, when entering high school, had a burning desire to participate in school athletics. He was not the same as you and me, however, for an early childhood accident left him without the use of his arms. They hung limp at his side, permanently crippled. He couldn't play baseball, football, or basketball. Wrestling and soccer were not for him. But there was one sport he could participate in—track.

In his sophomore, junior and senior years he practiced hard after school with the track squad, but he never ran in a race. He wasn't good enough! Finally, at the last meet of the year, one of his teammates took ill suddenly, and was unable to run. The boy of our story went to the coach and asked to be allowed to run in his teammate's place. Rather than lose the race by default, the coach granted permission, and as the runners took their positions in the blocks, a strange hush fell over the crowd. The gun went off, and as the runners shot up out of the blocks and down the track, our boy was last. He was last going around the first turn, and last going down the far side with his arms dangling pitifully at his sides while the other sprinters constantly enlarged the lead. As this boy started around the last turn he lost his balance, tripped and fell. He got up without the use of his arms and again started to run. As he approached the finish line the audience stood and cheered, many with tears in their eyes.

As he crossed the finish line, not only his teammates, but also his competitors greeted him and hoisted him upon their shoulders and paid tribute to him. This boy had drive, he had ambition, he had courage, he had a goal. And it is these same four qualities that are characteristic of a successful FFA member and of a leader.

But what is this thing called leadership? Leadership has almost as many definitions as there are people in the world. As defined by Webster's New World Dictionary, leadership is "the ability to lead." As outlined in the inspirational book Forward FFA, leadership in an individual is that combination of qualities and attributes that radiates confidence, inspires others, and causes others to follow him.

Some people accept the philosophy that leaders are born, not made. Others believe that leaders are made, not born. I believe that no man is born a leader, but that every man is born with the potential of leadership. Not every man is capable of becoming an outstanding leader, but every man has a degree of leadership ability that should be developed and put to work.

Picture, if you would, a set of concentric circles. In the center of these circles we place a dot. The dot represents individuals, and the circles represent the degree or actual limits of leadership ability.

Those with lesser ability lie within the first circle, those with more ability come within the second circle, and so on. It's our responsibility to push toward our potential, to reach for our ultimate capability—this should be our goal.

We may never reach the outer circle—few, if any, will. But it is there for us to strive toward each day, week, month, year and for our lifetime. Our world, our environment and its problems are changing constantly and so will our potential.

Some worthy advice to young leaders and FFA members who are striving for this lifetime goal can be found in the words of Calvin Coolidge, who said:

“Nothing can take the place of persistence,
Talent will not, nothing is more common than unsuccessful men with talent,
Education will not, the world is full of educated derelicts,
Genius will not, unrewarded genius is almost a proverb.
Persistence and perseverance alone are omnipotent.
The slogan ‘Press On’ has solved and always will solve the problems of the human race.”

W. H. Danforth, a great leader, wrote in his book I Dare You, “I dare you to be yourself, I dare you to do your best, I dare you to do better tomorrow than you have done today.”

Today's youth are tomorrow's leaders—and today's FFA members are not only going to replace those down on the farm and in other agricultural positions, but many are destined to be leaders as well. At the rate our world is changing and with the growing complexity of our problems, tomorrow's leaders will have to be more efficient, better educated and better citizens. They will have to be more knowledgeable about our environment, more aware of our country's problems, more concerned with the world, but most of all, tomorrow's leaders will have to be squares! Squares, you ask? Because you connote square to be a degrading term or insult. But doesn't it all depend on your definition of the word square? Back in Mark Twain's day, square was one of the finest words in the English language. You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. You gave him a square meal if he was hungry. You stood foursquare for your rights, and square against all unjust oppression. And if you were out of debt you were square with the world, and then you could look your fellowman square in the eye. But this word square has been badly bent and mis-shapen, and today everyone knows what a square is:

A square is someone who volunteers when he doesn't have to, someone who starts a job, and completes it, to the best of his ability. Someone who has the courage to step out and take command, someone who helps his neighbor and cooperates with his fellow man. A square not only preaches the Golden Rule but practices it. This is the kind of person I picture as a leader.

So the next time someone calls you square for going to church on Sunday, for saluting your Flag, for helping your neighbor, for having the drive, the ambition, the courage to overcome any obstacles on the way to your goal, be proud you are given that distinction, for tomorrow, the world will call upon the squares to solve the problems and assume the positions of leadership!

AGRICULTURAL PROFICIENCY AWARDS

This year, FFA members received more than $230,000 in awards that were provided by the National Future Farmers of America Foundation, Inc. Approximately 90,000 members received medals. These awards are given to encourage FFA members toward the goals of Establishment in Agricultural Occupations, Development of Leadership and the Practice of Good Citizenship. The FFA Creed

I believe in the future of farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds—achievements won by the present and past generations of agriculturists; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come up to us from the struggles of former years.

I believe that to live and work on a good farm, or to be engaged in other agricultural pursuits, is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of agricultural life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I cannot deny.

I believe in leadership from ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of progressive agriculturists to serve our own and the public interest in producing and marketing the product of our toil.

I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so—for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I believe that rural America can and will hold true to the best traditions in our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

The creed was written by E. M. Tiffany, and adopted at the 3rd National Convention of the FFA. (Revised at the 38th Convention.)

The FFA Motto ...
